What to Consider When Choosing a Guardian for Your Children

If you have minor children, choosing a guardian is a "must-do" and can afford you peace of mind. Once you have a shortlist, ask yourself these questions about each potential guardian:

WHERE DOES THE PERSON LIVE?

It's likely the children will move into the guardian's home, so think about whether they have a home that can accommodate your children.

Also, if the move to their home is far, how it could affect your children?

♀ ♀ AND MORAL BELIEFS?

Do you know them and are you comfortable having your children shaped by those beliefs?

DOES THE PERSON HAVE THEIR OWN CHILDREN?

If the person does not have children, have they spent time with yours?

If so, are you comfortable with their views on child discipline, education, sports, etc.?

An older guardian may be in a better financial position and have more time to spend with your children. They could also have little understanding of today's kids, and current trends.

On the flip side, younger guardians may be heavily involved in building their careers, leaving little time for children

DOES THE PERSON HAVE HEALTH ISSUES?

While you can never anticipate eventualities, it's probably not a good idea to choose a guardian who currently has health issues.

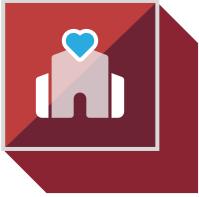

IS THE PERSON MARRIED?

If so, are you equally comfortable with their spouse and believe the marriage is stable?

If the person is single, are you confident in their ability to choose a partner you would approve of to help raise your children?

IS THE PERSON FINANCIALLY STABLE?

Like it or not, the financial situation of a guardian can have significant impact on your children.

lf not, will you leave enough money to cover expenses?

IS THE PERSON WILLING TO BE GUARDIAN TO YOUR CHILDREN?

It's essential you have a conversation with the proposed guardian to ensure they understand what it entails and if they are willing to take on the responsibility.
